Everett Barbarity Revealed in Evidence

Tissue of fabrication, sophistry, prejudice and perjury being torn away by defense

... and Everett Commercial Club’s cut-throat tactics being pieced together to show murder witnesses, disregard of law, justice, humanity and all decency by broadcloth murderers and their slimy tools.

By CHARLES ASHLEIGH

The industrial strike of International Labor, the Final May, approaches fast. That is the supreme festival of American revolution, the wide world’s shout that Labor yearly gathers up its strength and makes ready for war and more adequate offense.

There is, however, a legitimate question that deserves to be raised in the teeth of the claims of the law that the strike will be a revolution.

The violent overthrows of the so-called Revolution in France and the German revolution have been justly condemned for violating the sanctity of the person. In view of this, the question presented itself:

Is Labor to make a revolution by means of violence and murder?

The answer to this question is

No

The Final May Day Festival of Labor, the Labor Day, is a fantastic pageant, a fantastic festival of Labor. It is not a revolution. It is a celebration, a demonstration, a display of strength, a voice of protest. It is not a revolution. It is an expression of the will of the people. It is an assertion of the right of the people to self-government. It is a declaration of the right of the people to equality. It is a demonstration of the right of the people to justice.

The Final May Day Festival of Labor is a festival of peace. It is a festival of harmony. It is a festival of unity. It is a festival of brotherhood. It is a festival of freedom. It is a festival of prosperity. It is a festival of progress. It is a festival of democracy. It is a festival of labor. It is a festival of peace. It is a festival of prosperity.

Does He Want to Educate Employees?

In the current industrial climate the formation of the I. W. W. is becoming more evident as an objective. One of the indications of this is an open letter to employees of the Lake Superior & Ishpeming R. R. Co., signed by the general superintendent.

A letter is sent to department heads in the main office, and to the men in the shops, laying out the principles of the I. W. W., and the plan of action that the company officials are going to follow.

The letter states that the company has always been ready to make every effort to meet the wishes of its employees, and that the I. W. W. is coming to the company from outside.

There is no reason why the company should not cooperate with the I. W. W., and the letter asks for cooperation from the company officials.

The letter concludes by saying that the company will do its best to meet the wishes of its employees, and that the I. W. W. is doing its part to help the company reach its objectives.

1. Chapter 1: The Pinkerton Detective Agency

In Everett, the Pinkerton Detective Agency was tasked with investigating a labor dispute. The agent in charge, Mr. Ahern, requested a recess to allow him time to gather his evidence. The court then adjourned, leaving the case in limbo.

2. Chapter 2: The Everett Mill Strike

The Everett Mill Strike of 1892 was a significant event in American labor history. The strike was organized by the Industrial Workers of the World (IWW) and lasted from August 12 to August 22. The strike was marked by violence and ultimately ended with the defeat of the IWW. The Pinkerton Detective Agency was involved in monitoring and suppressing the strike.

3. Chapter 3: The Pinkerton Detective Agency’s Role

The Pinkerton Detective Agency was known for its role in suppressing labor disputes. In the case of the Everett Mill Strike, the agency was tasked with gathering evidence and preventing the IWW from gaining momentum. The agency’s methods were controversial and were often criticized for their brutality.

4. Chapter 4: The Pinkerton Detective Agency’s Methods

The Pinkerton Detective Agency used a variety of tactics to suppress labor disputes. These included surveillance, intimidation, and violence. The agency’s methods were often criticized for their brutality and were seen as a violation of workers’ rights.

5. Chapter 5: The Pinkerton Detective Agency’s Impact

The Pinkerton Detective Agency’s involvement in the Everett Mill Strike had a significant impact on the labor movement. The agency’s methods were seen as a threat to workers’ rights and helped to stifle the growth of the IWW. The agency’s tactics were later used as evidence in legal proceedings, leading to its eventual ban in 1919.
