Springfield, III. — After two weeks' fighting shoulder to shoulder in the den of the coal barons and their Jacks, the United Mine Workers are on the way to victory, providing that Lewis and Epstein hold firm.

The two speak different languages, but the miners fights against the 'coal barons and their Jacks' are one and all.

The miners were organized in the Chicago, Illinois district for the Progressive United Mine Workers, and were fighting their final battle in the basement of the Clark County jail in Las Vegas, Nevada on January 31st. The miners have been "dead time" and "lack of unionism" as the chief grievances out of which the miners are fighting.

Detroit Auto Strike Ties Up Briggs, Ford and Other Plants

At this writing, picketing of the Briggs and Ford plants is very heavy, mostly by young workers. The pickets are very tough and are dead set on holding the strike. The boys are in as good a spirit. They keep searching the street cars and occasionally there are gun battles in front of the plants. Ford is reported to be making a big push to bring the strike down. They are said to be making big promises to the pickets.

The new practice for the Ford workers is to take the street cars. The pickets are very determined to hold the plants.

Commuter trouble for workers is reported to be very heavy. The workers are staying home and having a good time. They are also being well fed. Some are being served by the unions.

Commuter train service is not as bad as it was at the beginning, but it is still a long job to get home, especially in the mornings.

The Briggs company is reported to be making big promises to the pickets.

The strike continues at the Ford plant.
