I. W. W. Members Appear in Case as Prosecutors Before the Bar

For the First Time in History, Perjury Charges Were Filed Against W. T. Teamster to Show Laws are for Some.

FREDERICK, June 1—J. W. McMillan, former president of the W. T. Teamsters, was sentenced to three years imprisonment Wednesday, at the federal court here, for his part in the frauds against the W. T. Teamsters. McMillan and his associates were convicted of and McMillan was sentenced to six months in the United States Penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., last week. The trial was the first time that the W. T. Teamsters had appeared as prosecutors before the council.

The defendant made his plea for the defense an appeal to the public. He pointed out that the W. T. Teamsters had asked the public to recognize them as a national union, and that they had never been recognized as such by any public official. He pointed out that the W. T. Teamsters had been the largest union in the country, and that they had never been recognized as such by any public official. He pointed out that the W. T. Teamsters had taken the whole teamster organization into their hands, and that they had never been recognized as such by any public official. He pointed out that the W. T. Teamsters had taken the whole teamster organization into their hands, and that they had never been recognized as such by any public official.

At the conclusion of the W. T. Teamster's organization, an appeal was made to the public to come to the defense. McMillan pointed out that the W. T. The Industrial Worker

Playing the Game of Production

By A. H. McFadden

The worker is the modern day athlete who, on the field of battle, does his utmost to win a game of production. His equipment consists of his mind and body, his tools, his wage, and his work hours. He must plan his strategy, work out his tactics, and execute his play with all his strength and skill. His opponents are the employers and the system of production. The game is won when the worker is able to produce more in a shorter time than his employer can sell.

The worker must also be prepared to face any obstacles that may arise. He must be able to adjust his strategy and tactics to the changing conditions of the game. He must be able to anticipate his opponent's moves and be ready to counter them. He must be able to adapt his technique to the specific demands of the game. The worker must also be able to work as a team, communicating effectively with his teammates and working together to achieve the team's goals.

The worker must also be able to deal with any distractions that may arise during the game. He must be able to maintain his focus and concentration, even when faced with challenges or obstacles. He must also be able to stay motivated and determined, even when faced with setbacks or failures.

The worker must also be able to adapt to any changes in the rules of the game. He must be able to learn new skills and techniques, and be able to adjust his strategy and tactics accordingly. He must also be able to adapt to any changes in the environment or conditions of the game, whether they be physical or psychological.

The worker must also be able to react quickly to any changes in his opponent's moves. He must be able to anticipate his opponent's next move and be ready to respond accordingly. He must also be able to react quickly to any changes in his own situation or circumstances, such as changes in his health or well-being.

The worker must also be able to work under any conditions, whether they be favorable or unfavorable. He must be able to work in any weather or climate, and be able to work in any environment or setting. He must also be able to work under any level of stress or pressure, whether they be high or low.

The worker must also be able to work with any level of confidence or assurance, whether they be high or low. WAGES AND HOURS

 Heroes of the past seven years have become a common occurrence in these days of peace. It is evident that the public has become enlightened regarding the necessity of a proper wage scale. During the past seven years the public has seen that labor has been forced to work for less than a fair day's wage. It is evident that labor has been working for less than a fair day's wage.
