Stopping War

Right-thinking people are jointly assailing the war. In the whole fabric of imperialist expansion there is nothing more glaring than the ruthless crusade which is being carried on. It is for power and profit. Peace-loving people have nothing to offer to this monstrous movement, and therefore they are concentrated in a brief space of time to prevent the war.

The weakness of liberal, humanitarian, and human rights philosophy is that they do not realize that this is a struggle for the very existence of the capitalist system. The war is not a struggle for the welfare of the working class, but for the perpetuation of the capitalist system.

About Labor

For the greater part of labor it must be said, though reluctantly, that it is hardly aware of the tremendous importance of being involved in a struggle to defend its rights. It is necessary to understand that the struggle is not only for the present generation, but for the future generation as well.

Marine Strikers Go Back On Strike

WASHINGTON, D.C. - The strike of Marine strikers ended today, with the announcement that the workers have returned to work after a strike of several days.

Steel Strike Ends

PITTSBURGH - Ten thousand steelworkers who had been on strike for several days ended their strike today, after negotiators reached an agreement.

PREAMBLE TO THE CONSTITUTION OF THE INDUSTRIAL WORKERS OF THE WORLD

The working class and the employing class have nothing in common. There is nothing that they can do and nothing that they can achieve except through constant class war. Their interests are diametrically opposed, and it is only by a class struggle that the working class can ever hope to achieve its emancipation.

The working class must accept nothing without a struggle. The working class must be disciplined, organized, and ready to fight for its rights.

Cleveland News Stunt

The Cleveland News stunt, which was planned to disrupt the normal news gathering process, has been cancelled due to the lack of cooperation from the police department.

The workers can gain nothing by mixing in the class struggle. There is no place outside of the toil of the class struggle where the class struggle can end and will not come to an end until the class struggle is over.
TAKE A MOVIE OF YOUR HEART IN ACTION

By HENRY GOLDBERG

The old-fashioned boy has not yet, in the history of the human race, disappeared from the face of the earth. People are constantly making and breaking promises. Business has declined. But the old-school boy is still with us, and he is the same as he was. He has not changed. He is always the same.

"Let's go to the movies," says the old-school boy. "Let's go to the movies." And so they go, and they sit in the dark, and they look at the screen, and they wonder about the characters, and they wonder where they are going.

But the old-school boy is not the same as the old-school boy of yesterday. He has changed. He has become more sophisticated. He has become more aware of the world around him. He has become more sensitive. He has become more discriminating.

The old-school boy of yesterday was content to sit in the darkness and wonder. He was content to let the characters on the screen entertain him. He was content to let the world around him fade into the background.

But the old-school boy of today is not content to sit in the darkness and wonder. He is not content to let the characters on the screen entertain him. He is not content to let the world around him fade into the background.

The old-school boy of today is looking for something more. He is looking for something deeper. He is looking for something more meaningful. He is looking for something more fulfilling.

The old-school boy of today is looking for a movie of his heart in action. He is looking for a movie that will make him think. He is looking for a movie that will make him feel. He is looking for a movie that will make him act.

But the old-school boy of today is not content to sit in the darkness and wonder. He is not content to let the characters on the screen entertain him. He is not content to let the world around him fade into the background.

The old-school boy of today is looking for something more. He is looking for something deeper. He is looking for something more meaningful. He is looking for something more fulfilling.

The old-school boy of today is looking for a movie of his heart in action. He is looking for a movie that will make him think. He is looking for a movie that will make him feel. He is looking for a movie that will make him act.
TO BUILD THE ONE BIG UNION WE MUST HAVE EDUCATION
